GOV. MORRIS IN OFFICE.

THE INAUGURATION AT HARTFORD.

RECOMMENDATIONS TO THE NEW LEGISLATURE

-ORGANIZATION OF THE TWO HOUSES. Hartford, Conn., Jan. 4 .- Governor Luzon B. Mor ris, of New-Haven, the fifty-fifth Governor of Connecticut in succession, was inaugurated here to-day with appropriate ceremonies. The fact that Governor Bulkeley has held over for two years by reason of the deadlock between Senate and House gave renewed interest to the proceedings. Governor Morris arrived from New-Haven this morning with his family, and a large party of friends, and was escorted to the Capitol by Governor Bulkeley and his staff, and the 1st Regiment and companies of the Governor's Foot and Horse Guards. A Governor's sainte of seven-teen guns was fred on Bushnell Park in front of the Capitol when the procession arrived. About 3:30 o'clock the party reached the Capitol. The nonses were in joint session, and Governor Morris read his Daugural address.

The Governor began his address by a historical review of the progress of manufactures and arts in the State, and urged a Constitutional Convention to revise its organic law in accordance with demands of the times. The legislature, he claimed, was not representative of the people, and the Constitution was obscured by too many amendments. He con-

act was passed oncerning elections, known as the "Se creet Ballot Act." This law, while working beneficially in many respects, has upon trisi been found to be de-fective, and there is need of further legislation to simplify so that persons of ordinary intelligence can readily iderstand its provisions.

There should be a law which would distranchise a man

no sells or buys a vote. . . There should be me legislation to prevent any undue approach to any ember of the Legislature in the performance of his duty. The Governor also recommends reform in the man-ner of taxing bonds, end in doing away with grade crossings of railways. He urged the apwith grade crossings of railways. He arged the ap-pointment of commissioners to act with those of other States in prometing uniform laws. He suggests an appropriation to defray the expense of the Connecticus. World's Fair exhibit. Whatever has been done thus far has been done by a voluntary association. The Governor closed with the announcement of the Philip Marett bequest of $70,000 to the State for the main nding $261,000 to be puld to the State as soon the Legislature authorized some person to receive from the United States Government.
The House of Representatives was called together fike to the members. The ballot for Speaker re-ulted as follows: Isauc W. Brooks, of Torrington. 113; George M. Gunn, 105. Speaker Brooks was sworn lu by the retiring Speaker, Allan W. Paige. ndrew F. Gates was chosen clerk and resolutions were passed appointing George A. Kellogg, of Rock-ville, assistant clerk; the Rev. J. Kittredge Wheeler, of Hartford chaplein. The Senate was called to order by State Secretary R. J. Walsh, of Greenwich. All Senators were present and were sworn into office. ballot for clerk showed twelve votes for W. Comstock, of Mcntville, and twelve for Edward G. Hutchinson, of Essex, the Senate dividing upon party lines.

Senator Holcomb, (Rep.), of Southington, asked unanimous permission to change his vote. He said that in the interest of public business and to avoid a deadlock or any delay he would vote for Mr. Comstock for clerk, which he did and Comstock was elected, Senator Holden (Dem.), was elected president pro tem, receiving thirteen votes. Eleven Republicans voted blank hallots. The Rev. Willis H. Stone, ha Episcopal minister, of this city, was elected-dauphein. A partisan debate occurred on a resolution notifying to the retiring Governor, Bulliey, that the Senate was really to receive any communication he had to make. Senator Pierce, a member of the previous benate, objected to recognizing Governor Bulkeley by the passage of the resolutions, but it passed, 13 to 11, Senator Cleveland (Dem.), voting with the Republicans.

Governor Bulkeley sent in a communication notifying to the Senate that he had appointed George Haven, of New-London, Brigadier-General of the National Guard, in place of General Watson, resigned. The communication was tabled. The Governor notified to the Senate that he had loaned $300,000 to the various departments during the last two years, and submitted vouchers for the amount. He also sent a communication giving the various appointments to commissionerships he has made, which have not been confirmed by the Senate or acted upon in concurrence with the House. Both matters were accepted and vansmitted to the House. Senator Holcomb, (Rep.), of Southington, asked

A lecture which promises to be of unusual interest will be given at Hamilton Hall, Columbia College, to-morrow evening by Professor William Carey

It is under the auspices of the New York Society of the Archaeological institute of America. In a circular address to the members by the president, A. C. Merram, points of interest in regard to the lecture are thus set forth: "The appropriation for excavations in Greece has produced results which have shed lustre upon the institute abrual and at New-York, Jan. 2, 1893. have shed lustre upon the institute abroad and at home. In order that these results may be better appreciated, an illustrated lecture upon last winter's campaign will be delivered before this society in campaign will be delivered before this society in January by Professor W. SELECTIONS FROM THE MAIL

THE MAYBRICK CASE. HAS ENGLAND'S MAGNA CHARTA BEEN VIO-LATEDI

the Editor of The Tribune. sir: The eloquent appeal to the British Home office made by "Gall Hamilton" in your issue of the tober 28 for the release of Mrs. Maybrick from Woling Prison is, as your leading article theron justly remarks, not only "a hard review of the evidence aron with the release." upon which the prisoner was convicted," but it de-cidedly "marshals the facts in favor of her innocence sopening the case."

No doubt Mr. Asquith will give careful attention to the important plea set forth by "Gail Hamilton, who could not be expected to use all the arguments which might be advanced in favor of the release of

with such cumulative force as to warrant the co-clusion that the Home Secretary will be justified in

For argument's sake nione let us look at this case from a point of view emitted by "Gail Hamilton"-a point, however, which the intelligent public in America and England do not expect that Mr. Asquith will furnish occasion to dilate upon-viz., that he still does not see his way to comply with the prayer of those who plead for Mrs. Maybrick's release. Fortu-nately for the lovers of justice in every quarter of the globe, who are taking more and more interest in victim incarcerated in Woking Prison, this ques the victim incarcerated in Woking Frison, this specition has already been anticipated by Mr. Heathcote Hardings in his letter in this case in "The Evening News and Post" of October 27. You will see from that letter that the writer asks, "Why is Mrs. Maybrick retained in prison on the opinion of two or three gentlemen that she is guilty of administering arsente with a felonious intent? Why do not these gentlemen take the public into their confidence by reporting their reasons for arriving at such a decision, and so report-ing that the public, both in England and in America. may see clearly that there has possibly been some reuson for the views entertained? Such a request b But this just request contains more than to my opinion. The English, as a Christian nation, pride themselves on the fact that their laws are founded on the law given in the Bible-and so they are. Magna Charta is considered to be so found d. and Magna Churta declares that no one is to be de-tained in prison for any great length of time without having first been tried according to the law of the land. Henry III's First Great Charter also declares that "no freeman shall be seized, or imprisoned . . . nor will we condemn him, nor will we commit him to prison, excepting by the legal judgment of his peers, or by the laws of the land -xxxii, 30.

This is really the same thing as given in Magna Charta xxxix, 59. And in the Third Great Chartee of Henry III Coke tells us, 2d Inst. 43, 55 and 41, that though the writ to pr vent untried prisoners being kep long in prison without trial was abolished, yet it was subsequently (42 Edward III, c. 1) revived, so that it is still in force. And Hallam ("Middle Ages." ch. 8, part III) says that "nothing could be more illegal than the conviction of the Earl of Cambridge and Lord Scrope in 1415, if it be true (according to Carte and itume) that they were not heard in their defeace."
And he calls attention to a passage in Sir John Fortescue's treatise, "De Laudibus Legum Angliae," where it is laid down that "A King of England cannot at land... without the consent of the subject." Pawie also, arg. 8, St. Tr. 183, informs us that "the two great pillars of the government are parliaments and juries." It is these, he says, which give us the title of freeborn Englishmen, "for," he adds, "my notion of free Englishmen is this—that they are ruled by laws of their own making, and tried by men of the same condition as themselves." History tells us that the Star Chamber exercised an illegal control over the ordinary courts of justice, and that it "indirects severa punishment beyond the usual course of justice," It is known that "some one had blundered" when the order was given for that famous charge of the Light brighted, in which Got English cavalry charged a whole known army at the battle of Englandered" in giving an order for penal servitude for life on Miss. Maybride, such order being diametrically opposed to England's Great Charter, as well as to her other haws for the security of the subject from wrong conviction. England's Great Charter, as well as the conviction for the security of the subject from wrong conviction for the subject from wrong conviction for a noble harton like England will rectify an error of judgment. She as a Christian nation, is require to "judge righteous judgment," and to "prove a things" to enable her to "judge the people with the county. Mrs. Maybrick must be set free, in the printer of the angle of the printer of the printer of the printer of England at America, otherwise the Great Charter of Endand with the violated.
